

Your Gateway to Chinese Language and Culture

The Confucius Institute's mission is to promote understanding of Chinese language and culture through training courses, conferences, cultural workshops, and events. Building on extensive resources for Chinese Studies at Emory University and pooling together China specialists in universities in the Atlanta area, the Institute will serve as a regional center for Chinese teacher training and Chinese instruction and curriculum development. The Institute will also provide a wide range of public programming, such as language and cultural workshops, to address the diverse needs of the business community and the general public. A comprehensive information center, the Institute will help create connections and partnerships between the Atlanta community and China.
