Yasheng Huang is professor of political economy and international management and holds International Program Professorship in Chinese Economy and Business at Sloan School of Management, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He also holds a special-term professorship at School of Management, Fudan University and an honorary professorship at Hunan University.

In addition to academic journal articles, Professor Huang's published books include Capitalism with Chinese Characteristics (2008, Chinese edition, 2010), a detailed narrative account of history of economic reforms in China. The book was selected by the Economist magazine as one of the best books published in 2008.

In collaborations with other scholars, Professor Huang is conducting research on a range of research projects including higher education in China, production of scientific knowledge in China, on entrepreneurship, and on FDI. At MIT Sloan School, Professor Huang founded and runs China Lab and India Lab, which aim to help entrepreneurs in China and India improve their management.
