

China's Nuclear Strategy and the Denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula

A Discussion with Tong Zhao, Ph.D.

Join the Center for International Strategy, Technology, and Policy and the China Research Center as they host Tong Zhao for a discussion China's nuclear strategy and Chinese views of denuclearization of the Korean peninsula. What is the prospect of the denuclearization of North Korea? How China views North Korea's nuclear program and will it be possible for China and the United States to cooperate to achieve the ultimate elimination of North Korea's nuclear capabilities? This presentation seeks to shed light on possible outcomes of the ongoing denuclearization negotiations with North Korea and their security implications for big power relations in the Asia Pacific. It will also examine China's nuclear modernization programs and what are the driving forces behind such efforts.

OCTOBER 23RD, 2018
FROM 3:00 TO 5:00PM

KLAUS ADVANCED
COMPUTING BUILDING,
ROOM 1116 WEST

Dr. Zhao is a fellow in the Nuclear Policy Program at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, based at the Carnegie-Tsinghua Center for Global Policy in Beijing. His research focuses on strategic security issues, including nuclear weapons strategy, arms control, nonproliferation, missile defense, hypersonic weapons, space security, and other international security issues. He holds a PhD in science, technology, and international affairs from the Georgia Institute of Technology, and received a B.S. in physics and an M.A. in international relations from Tsinghua University.