

The Asian Studies Center Presents

Film Screening and Discussion with Filmmaker Adam Smith Tuesday, February 3, 2015 3:30pm, Cinefest

The Chinese government has announced plans to relocate 250 million farmers to cities across the nation over the next 20 years. This documentary goes to Ordos, a "ghost city" in China's Inner Mongolia, and follows the lives of people who are moving from the country into a brand new city.

This event is free and open to the public. It is co-sponsored by the China Research Center and the following GSU Departments: Anthropology, Communication, the Institute for International Business, Political Science and Sociology.
